"Safety first" should be the slogan on Saturday.

There is no denying that fusion between the Democrats and Progressives of Vermont would stir up a lively time for the Republican party.

We suppose the Morrisville Messenger, as well as the Morrisville News and Citizen, will support its townsman, Frederick G. Fleetwood, for governor.

Those two great liners that are said to be engaged in a race across the Atlantic have got the mania that has turned the land topsy-turvy. We trust they slow up in a fog.

The proposal of the Barre city council to raise the west side of the Washington street highway so that it will not be several inches below the tops of the street car rails finds a hearty approval among users of all kinds of street vehicles. That side of the street for a considerable distance along the high school grounds has been in poor shape for a long time.

Senator Boies Penrose of Pennsylvania made a rather effective rejoinder to Theodore Roosevelt's condemnation of him at Pittsburgh by publishing a telegram which Roosevelt sent to Penrose in 1904, in which Roosevelt was most profuse in his praise of Penrose for great service in vote-getting for Roosevelt, a man has a right to change his mind; and apparently Roosevelt has changed his most decidedly.

Anent New Hampshire's new law requiring most road vehicles to carry lights at night, the Concord Monitor says: "Lights on vehicles, as the law provides, will save dollars, broken bones and lives. Let there be light!" We hope that Vermont will see the wisdom of such an enactment and that within a short time this state will also have a statute of similar purport and that it will be strictly enforced.

It is said that mediation has averted war in Mexico. What war? The rebels and the Huerta gang are still fighting; the United States never was at war with Huerta and probably never would have been. The South American peace commissioners have tried hard, but it is not justifiable to say now that they have averted war. It will not be justifiable until the fratricidal scrap inside the borders of the southern republic ends definitely; and that after all, was the real war to be averted.

The rainfall of several days is likely to bring the Vermont hay crop up near the standard than was expected three weeks ago when the indications were for a light yield. Many farmers had already begun their haying before the rain came, but undoubtedly the majority of Vermonters had not started, so that the effect of the rain will be felt on a considerable percentage of the acreage devoted to raising hay. To other crops the rain came at the proper time to make things grow rapidly, and the garden yield should measure large in the returns of the average Vermont farm. The rain means thousands of dollars to Vermont.

Possibly some of the 15,000 employees of the United States Express Co. will eventually find places in the U. S. parcel post department. If the total number of people thrown out of employment by the act of the express company in quitting the business were centered, it would constitute a great problem to know what to do with them; but the employees were scattered all over the continent so that the problem of assimilating them in some other employment does not appear so difficult. But whatever way you look at the situation it makes quite a business tragedy to have a 60-year-old concern go out of business in this manner.

GROWING IMPORTANCE OF IMMIGRATION QUESTION.

The growing importance of the immigration question in the United States, as indicated by the greater public interest in the matter and by the demand in some quarters for a thorough investigation of the whole system, brings uppermost also the fact that no man in Congress is more conversant with the immigration question than Vermont's senior senator, who has given a great deal of his time to a study of the subject, both in the United States and in the countries from which the greater part of the immigration comes. If, then, as seems probable, the immigration question is to be one of the most important issues before the United States during the next few years, Senator Dillingham will be able to give his country some of the benefits of his conclusions as drawn after thorough study and to enable Congress to adopt a satisfactory basis and possibly to assist in a searching investigation of alleged abuses of the present system. In any of these capacities, Senator Dillingham will prove to be a very valuable aid. As a member of the Senate immigration committee, as a member of the commission which went to Europe to make an investigation of conditions there and as a close student of the general problem of immigration, he has acquired a fund of information and a grasp of the subject that few others in the United States have acquired.

TALK OF THE TOWN

The hill train will run Friday night this week, instead of Saturday. The Barre streets will be closed all day Saturday.

"The Perils of Pauline," at the Pavilion to-day is marked by the unusual in plot by the reality of settings and scenes and by fineness in photography.

Mrs. William H. Wales of Worcester, Mass., a former resident of Barre, and her sister, Miss Merle Turner, also of Worcester, are passing several days in the city as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Levi W. Keith of 21 Eastern avenue.

The advance guard of a number of Barre people who are to participate in the celebration of 100 years of peace between the United States and Great Britain at St. Albans Saturday left today for the Railroad City. Among them were Mrs. Leon Carroll, Nelson Lafuer, Peter Gonyo, Henry Gale and Joseph Gauthier.

Miss Beatrice Bugbee, who left this morning to pass a month in camp at Highgate Springs, will spend the Fourth in St. Albans and among those who will go to St. Albans this evening are Miss Alice Sullivan and Miss Marie Boyce.

WILLIAMSTOWN.

The grange will hold a picnic in Gale's woods July 4 and will heartily welcome grangers from South Barre, Washington and other places. Athletic sports will be in evidence, including a baseball game. Bring a lunch. Ice cream and lemonade will be on sale.

The Williamstown Construction company will receive bids for the hay on the meadow for this season. All bids must be in our hands by Monday night, July 6. We reserve the right to reject any or all bids.

Death of Mrs. J. W. Brock and Herbert Anderson Occurred Yesterday.

Mrs. Sarah Carpenter Brock, wife of James W. Brock, died yesterday after several months illness, following an attack of bronchitis. Mrs. Brock was born in Waterbury, the daughter of William W. Wells and was 69 years old the 22d of June. In November, 1886, she married Mr. Brock and most of her life since then has been spent in Montpelier. Besides her husband, she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Helen Brock Coburn, a son, Dr. William W. Brock, and two brothers, Charles and Frederick Wells, both of Burlington. Jedediah Hyde Baxter, surgeon general of the United States army, who died in Washington in 1890, has presented to the Vermont Historical society a large portrait of her late husband, and the same has been hung in the reception room at the State House. General Baxter was born in Strafford.

Herbert D. Anderson of this city died yesterday at the home of his parents in Bethlehem, N. H., of acute nephritis. Mr. Anderson, who was about 83 years old, had been ill since February and when it became evident that he could never recover, he went to his old home, accompanied by his wife, and there the end came. Besides his wife, he is survived by a six-year-old daughter, Arlene, his parents, three brothers and three sisters. For four years Mr. Anderson was a motorman for the Barre & Montpelier Traction company. The funeral is to take place in Bethlehem to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.
